

Technical Perspectives on Analyst's Rating Changes

JTX – case study
03-05-2008

JTX – By late June of 2007, JTX had fallen into a downtrend and was performing poorly as indicated on the TPARC report at that time. After the TPARC report was prepared, the stock rallied back up into resistance but the stock turned down again in late 2007. The sale of stock that might have been prompted by the Performance Alarm was proved to be correct when the downtrend re-asserted itself. The stock has lost over 50% of its value from the price shown on the TPARC report. There was a big drop in the price of the stock yesterday.
